DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. A substitute specification in proper idiomatic English and in compliance with 37 CFR 1.52(a) and (b) is required. The substitute specification filed must be accompanied by a statement that it contains no new matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-12 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claims contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Regarding Claim 1, the claim language describes FIFO user queues “such that the identifier at the head of a queue always designates the user having the lease advanced amount...in this queue.” Further, the claim language indicates that the work memory stores “several amounts...capable of advancing” and “advancing the amount...of this selected user according to a chosen increment.” As such, although a FIFO is claimed, it appears that upon being allocated a “chosen service slice,” the “amount” associated with a given user is incremented, which results in the user advancing in the FIFO queue. However, if a single user advances to the exclusion of other users in the FIFO queue, the principal of first-in-first-out is not met because a user could jump ahead of another user. Applicant's specification does not describe how this is possible using a FIFO queue structure. Therefore, due to the lack of sufficient direction provided by the inventor and the state of the prior art, it would require undue experimentation by one skilled in the art to make and use the claimed invention. Claims 2-12 are rejected due to their dependence on Claim 1.

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 1-12 rejected as failing to define the invention in the manner required by 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph. The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors. Further regarding Claim 1, the metes and bounds of claim language "several" and "a limited number of" are unclear. Further, it is unclear what is meant by "defining user queues of the "first in - first out" (FIFO) type" and the claim term "contriving." Neither phrase appears to impart functionality on the claimed device. The phrase "defining user queues" does not suggest that the claimed device is functionally configured to store data in a FIFO manner. The phrase "contriving," given its plain meaning, can be interpreted as "to devise" or "to plan." As such, the claim language appears to be directed toward an inventor's design rather than defining the functional metes and bounds of the claimed device. Claim elements "decision means" and "memory link means" are means (or step) plus function limitations that invoke 35 U.S.C. 112, sixth paragraph. However, the written description fails to disclose the corresponding structure, material, or acts for the claimed function. Applicant is required to: (a) Amend the claim so that the claim limitation will no longer be a means (or step) plus function limitation under 35 U.S.C. 112, sixth paragraph; or

(b) Amend the written description of the specification such that it expressly recites what structure, material, or acts perform the claimed function without introducing any new matter (35 U.S.C. 132(a)). If applicant is of the opinion that the written description of the specification already implicitly or inherently discloses the corresponding structure, material, or acts so that one of ordinary skill in the art would recognize what structure, material, or acts perform the claimed function, applicant is required to clarify the record by either: (a) Amending the written description of the specification such that it expressly recites the corresponding structure, material, or acts for performing the claimed function and clearly links or associates the structure, material, or acts to the claimed function, without introducing any new matter (35 U.S.C. 132(a)); or (b) Stating on the record what the corresponding structure, material, or acts, which are implicitly or inherently set forth in the written description of the specification, perform the claimed function. For more information, see 37 CFR 1.75(d) and MPEP §§ 608.01(o) and 2181.

Claims 2-12 comprise similar deficiencies to those described above with regard to Claim 1.

Applicant is requested to perform a thorough review of the claims to ensure that the metes and bounds of all claim terminology are clearly defined and consistent with the specification. No new matter should be added to the claims. Due to these deficiencies, an analysis of the claims against the prior art is not presented herein.

5. Claims 1-12 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential structural cooperative relationships of elements, such omission amounting to a gap between the necessary structural connections. See MPEP § 2172.01. The omitted structural cooperative relationships are between the claimed work memory, decision means, and memory link means, as claimed in Claim 1. Claims 2-12 are rejected due to their dependence on Claim 1.
